

KEEP PROPERTY SAFE WITH IMMOBILISE

Suffolk Police have joined forces with online property database Immobilise to help keep property safe and reunite stolen items with their rightful owners from across the country.

Many items of identifiable property are either lost or stolen each year. Immobilise is the world's largest free register of possession ownership and searchable register of stolen goods and blocked mobile phones. If you register your property at www.immobilise.com and the police recover it, you will get it back.

Almost any possession with a serial number can be registered, including –

- Mobile phones
- Ipods, other MP3 players and games consoles
- Laptops, computers and PDAs
- Sat navs and in-car equipment
- Bicycles

Watches, jewellery, art and antiques can also be registered. Users who upgrade can also add photos and certificates of ownership to their account.

Many items we recover from criminals are not given back to their owners, as without information on serial numbers or property marking we do not know who they belong to. Equally, if when we search a property we suspect an item of being stolen but the serial number does not indicate to us that the goods don't belong to the person who possesses them, we cannot take that item away.

“Spending five minutes registering details of your valued possessions on immobilise.com means your details are instantly available to us and all other forces across the country. If an item is stolen you can update your record to tell us, so if we or any other force find your MP3 player, sat nav or bike, we have proof it belongs to you, not the offender. With the theft of such items becoming increasingly common, this database is a valuable tool to hit back at these criminals and bring them to justice.
